

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the position because my background aligns directly with the systems, workflow, and support responsibilities described. I bring over fifteen years of experience designing and maintaining operational workflows, ERP-style processes, CRM modules, and Microsoft 365-based solutions that improve reliability and reduce manual work. My work has consistently focused on understanding real user needs, translating them into clear requirements, and delivering stable, deterministic solutions that support daily operations.

In previous roles, I supported large user bases, managed cross-department data flows, built automation using Power Automate, developed SharePoint-based interfaces, and maintained high-quality data environments across ERP, CRM, and production systems. I am comfortable handling complex issues, mapping processes, and supporting both technical and non-technical staff with clarity and patience.

I am seeking a full-time role where I can apply these skills in a stable environment. Discrete Development, my freelance LLC, was created for contract work; if hired, I will discontinue it entirely unless it provides a direct benefit to the employer relationship.

Thank you for your consideration. I am ready to contribute immediately and support your team with dependable, practical solutions.
